

MUTUAL NON-DISCLOSURE AGREEMENT

This Mutual Non-Disclosure Agreement (the “Agreement”) is effective on 14th July 2026 (the “Effective Date”) between:

AlertMend	ALERTMEND.IO PTE. LTD., trading as AlertMend AI, of 32 Pekin Street, #05-01, Singapore 048762
Customer	Legal name: _____ Address: _____

Each is a “party” and together they are the “parties.”

1. Purpose

The parties may share information to evaluate, discuss, test, or enter into a business relationship involving AlertMend’s AI-powered infrastructure operations platform, including product demonstrations, security and compliance review, technical integration, pricing, a proof of concept, or a pilot (the “Purpose”). Neither party is required to disclose information or proceed with a transaction.

2. What counts as Confidential Information

“Confidential Information” means non-public information disclosed by or for one party (the “Discloser”) to the other (the “Recipient”) for the Purpose, whether shared in writing, verbally, visually, electronically, or through access to systems. It includes information marked confidential and information that a reasonable person would understand is confidential from its nature or the circumstances.

Examples include product plans, pricing, source code, models, workflows, security or compliance materials, architecture, credentials, customer or supplier information, business plans, and technical information about infrastructure, Kubernetes, cloud environments, logs, incidents, configurations, or integrations. The existence and substance of the parties’ discussions are also Confidential Information.

3. What is not Confidential Information

Confidential Information does not include information the Recipient can reasonably show: (a) is public through no breach of this Agreement; (b) was already lawfully known without a duty of confidentiality; (c) was lawfully received from another source without a duty of confidentiality; (d) was independently developed without using the Discloser’s Confidential Information; or (e) was approved for release in writing by the Discloser.

4. How each party will protect the other’s information

The Recipient will use Confidential Information only for the Purpose, keep it secure, and protect it with at least reasonable care. The Recipient may share it only with its affiliates, employees, contractors, and professional advisers who need it for the Purpose and are bound to protect it. The Recipient remains responsible for their compliance with this Agreement.

Neither party will use the other's Confidential Information to train a general-purpose or shared artificial intelligence model without prior written permission. This does not prevent use of private tools or systems solely to support the Purpose where access is appropriately restricted and the confidentiality obligations in this Agreement continue to apply.

5. Required disclosure

If law, regulation, or a valid court or government order requires disclosure, the Recipient may disclose only what is required. Where legally permitted, it will give the Discloser prompt notice and reasonable help to seek confidential treatment or another protective measure.

6. Return or deletion

On written request, the Recipient will take reasonable steps to return or delete the Discloser's Confidential Information. It may keep copies required by law or retained automatically in secure backups or ordinary record-retention systems, but this Agreement will continue to protect those copies.

7. Ownership; no licence or warranty

Each party keeps all rights in its own Confidential Information. This Agreement does not transfer ownership or grant a licence except the limited right to use Confidential Information for the Purpose. Confidential Information is provided "as is," without a promise that it is complete or accurate. Any product use, services, data processing, or commercial commitments will be covered by a separate written agreement.

8. How long this Agreement lasts

This Agreement covers disclosures made from the Effective Date until two years later, unless either party ends future disclosures earlier by written notice. The confidentiality and use obligations for each disclosure continue for three years from the date of disclosure. Trade secrets remain protected for as long as they qualify as trade secrets under applicable law.

9. If something goes wrong

A breach may cause harm that money alone cannot fully repair, so the Discloser may ask a court for an injunction or similar equitable relief. All other rights and remedies remain available. This clause does not create penalties or predetermined damages.

10. Standard legal terms

This Agreement is the entire agreement about confidentiality for the Purpose and replaces earlier confidentiality discussions about the same Purpose. Changes must be in writing and agreed by both parties. Neither party may assign this Agreement without the other's consent, except to an affiliate or as part of a merger, reorganisation, or sale of substantially all relevant business or assets. A failure to enforce a right is not a waiver. If one provision is unenforceable, the rest remains effective. Neither party is creating a partnership, agency, or exclusive relationship.

This Agreement is governed by the laws of Singapore, excluding conflict-of-law rules. The courts of Singapore have exclusive jurisdiction. The parties may sign electronically and in counterparts, each of which is treated as an original.

11. Notices

Notices under this Agreement must be in writing and may be sent by email to the contacts below (or to an updated contact notified in writing). A notice is received when the sender receives a non-automated confirmation, or on the next business day if sent outside normal business hours.
